Madison Heights is growing--not only in size, with our 479 freshmen--but in all the many and varied dimensions of education. As our school grows, it changes, and this past year has marked many firsts. Our 258 seniors are the first graduating class to have completed all six years of academic and social training at Madison. Coming with our biggest-ever freshman class is our first foreign exchange student. A yearbook queen, new vocal music groups, and lab assistants in the biology classes are starting new traditions. Loved traditions from past years are being continued and strengthened. The band won even higher honors at the State Fair. Homecoming and the Prom were as fabulous as ever. In the academic field the standards of excellence exemplified by the fifth year math course continue to inspire us to harder study.

In striving to live up to the Madison Heights educational challenge, over 70% of our students continue to seek further knowledge by enrolling in college. Many apply their learning in the business world. But all remember the achievements, the enjoyment of learning, the attained wealth in friendships--the measurements of education. Madison Heights is finding its place among the best high schools in the state by coming up to the highest standards set in all the . . . . . .

Dimensions in Learning

The Measure of Education...

This mural by George Sasser, a Madison Heights graduate, is "a pageant of the past and present." It represents man's educational development up to the present and expresses the strain of modern living. It implies that man stands on the threshold of self-destruction but offers hope for the future in the dedication of the doctor and nurse.

A Student's Prayer

Dear Father, help me to realize that these are my years of opportunity.
Help me to know that this is the portion of my life set aside for "growing in wisdom as well as in stature," a time to develop responsibility.
Grant me the power to face up to the best that you have given me, to find my talents and to develop them and employ them that they may do the most in Thy service.
Open my eyes that I may marvel at the beauty of Thy creation, that the wonders of Thy universe may find responsiveness in me.
When work proves difficult, give me courage to rise to its challenge.
Let me sense Thy nearness, standing ready to supply me with the extra power I need to see it to completion.

The measure of education--Does it stretch the dimensions of a person's mind? Does it compel him to look beyond his own narrow interests to the concerns of the whole world? Does it give him a desire for knowledge and the wish to discover truth? Does it make him sensitive to life--aware of its meaning for him and understanding of its meaning for others? Does it teach him basic principles on which to build his further education? Does it instill in him the value of honest work as well as the excitement of creative thought? Does it give him the courage and honesty to stand above the crowd, to dare to be himself?

A Yardstick for Living...

A person's own yardstick for living is the product of his complete education. All of his experiences throughout life go into the shaping of his guiding principles and standards. The basic limits of this yardstick are formed in the home by his parents and family. The church has a far-reaching influence on the lives of many. Some conform to the standards of their friends. But finally, each person, if he is to find himself, must find his personal values, alone.

Practical Preparation for Later

In drafting class James Watson and Roger Denny draw the top view of a machine part.

In vocational building trades the boys have worked this year on Mr. Smith's new home.

Opportunities

Because of the rising need for trained architects, mechanics, and carpenters, there are many boys entering the vocational shop classes. Here they learn the proper use of machines and the products a machine can manufacture. They formulate their ideas on paper and carry them out by manual labor, working on such projects as the home they are building this year for Mr. Smith.

Exciting careers in the business world create within business students the desire to learn and improve their skills. One of the most important tasks is studying the techniques of bridging the gap between the producer and the consumer by tactful correspondence. The opportunity to operate various office machines also challenges many students in advanced typing classes.

Typing students strive for accuracy during a timed writing.

Hard Study

The fascinating worlds of science and mathematics may come alive for a student as he finally performs his experiment just right in the chem lab, as he watches the wonder of a heart still beating in a newly-dissected animal, or as he grasps for the first time a new concept in geometry. He may be inspired to make one of the fields of science or mathematics his career, but in any field he will profit from a new understanding of the world around him.

At Madison Heights, science and mathematics teaching endeavors to keep pace with current scientific developments and strives to give each student a solid foundation of basic principles which will prepare him for further study.

Stretch To Include the Whole World

Through the Language and Social Studies Departments, students explore many phases of the whole world of man's experience. In their history and government courses they develop an understanding of the influences and events that shaped our Western civilization, an appreciation of our American heritage, an interest in foreign cultures, and a concern for the problems of our times. The literature courses bring them the ideas of great men and an understanding of people beyond the range of their own experience. Speech and English classes teach them to use their own language effectively, while foreign language study gives them an insight into the structure of language and a further knowledge of other peoples.

Boys' physical education classes benefit from outdoor exercise as well as indoor activities.

Madison Heights offers to its students a wide choice of non-academic subjects. The gravel parking lot equipped with flags is a miniature obstacle course for the drivers. Here they develop skills in controlling a car and learn good driving habits.

The excitement of the State Fair for the band and the County Choral Festival for the choir, the exhilaration of the Spring Festival, the bond of fellowship, and the actual experience obtained--all contribute to the students' enjoyment and knowledge of the music field.

Whatever their individual purpose, the subjects afford students an opportunity to broaden the dimensions of their education.

Decisions for the future become more urgent as a student approaches graduation. The Counseling Department door is always open to the student seeking the answers to his problems. Mrs. Davis, Mr. Dietzen, and Mr. Wimmer administer NEDT, PSAT, aptitude, intelligence, and personality tests. These counselors discuss with students the everpressing problem of choosing a career and help arrange for the Junior Guidance Day program.

Booklets about vocations are available in the counseling office and catalogues from the colleges may be borrowed for a two week period. The counselors help students with their choice of a college and arrange for the College Night program for juniors and seniors. The counselors also provide a valuable service by helping many students each day with school, social, and personal problems.

AFS'ers Promote Program, Bring

Jeanne at one of her many speaking engagements--this one, a group of students at Highland.

In 1960 the Student Council Committee for a Foreign Exchange Student recommended the American Field Service program as the best means of broadening the outlook of Madison Heights students and of participating in the effort to improve international good will.

After several months of hard work, an AFS chapter was formed, Anderson High joined the program, families were found to provide homes for the first two students for a year, and the necessary money was raised. A group of ten students from Madison Heights and Anderson gave speeches before nearly every local civic organization, telling them about the program and asking for their support.

This year, as a result of united student and community effort, Madison Heights has Jeanne Korteweg from Dordtrecht, the Netherlands, as a member of its Senior Class. Jeanne has participated in many school activities, was chosen Homecoming Queen, and has won many, many friends with her bubbling personality and warm smile.

Because the American Field Service program has proved to be such a big success this year, Highland is joining the program next year. The three schools are sponsoring AFS week, and Madison Heights and Anderson are hoping to be able to send one student apiece overseas this summer.

Academic Achievement Won Its

After many weeks of independent study and advanced work in their subjects, several students participated in the Indiana University High School Achievement Contests. They had first taken elimination tests at MH; then they won high ranks on the regional tests given at Ball State. The last Saturday in April, 1961, was finals day, on which Madison Heights students won the following awards: Honorable Mention--Dan Murray-Comprehensive Math B, Bill Steimer-English, Tom Jones-Geometry, Richard Sheppard-Geometry, Carmen Beasley-Algebra; Gold Medal--Julie Turnquist-English.

For her outstanding performance in government, Nancy Michaels won the DAR award for Madison Heights.

Mary Kay Davis and Julie Turnquist were Madison Heights' two National Merit Scholarship Finalists.

Due Praise and Recognition

Girls' and Boys State: Tom Hess, Janice Jones, Carol Rhynearson, Judy Apgar, Bill Steimer, Phil McDonald.

Student Efforts in Many

Craig Priest was awarded one of the two Indiana district Fisher Body awards for his car design. Fisher Body gave him a cash price of $150 and a trip to the National Guild Convention at Detroit.

For her outstanding work in home economics, Sandie Cook was nominated to McCall's Fashion Board.

Chosen for outstanding leadership and good citizenship, Freshmen --Judy Eidson, Dave Bertram, Sophomores--Carmen Beasley, Bill Elwell, Juniors--Ann Whitehead, Paul Jarrett, Seniors--Beverly Friend, Dan Murray, attended the Optimist Club dinner.

Christie Hudson won the Voice of Democracy speech for Madison Heights.

Fields were Rewarded

Celia Lamper won a trip to New York City and Washington, D. C., for her first place meat demonstration and chicken casserole at the State Fair.

Her essay, "What Christmas Means to Me," won for Julie Turnquist a trip to New York City and the title "Miss Christmas Carol of 1961."

Craig Hughel won a fourth place ribbon in the Boys' Radio division at the Lafayette Jefferson speech contest.

Long hours of practice paid off with first place medals in the state music auditions for: Marilyn Hollar--piano, flute, Paula Davies--voice, John Smith--drum, Neal Lydick--drum, Eric Krall--saxophone, Ross Willoughby--drum, Dennis Moller--French horn, Strickler-saxophone, Mark Thompson-saxophone. Rusty McCarroll-saxophone, Tom Woods-baritone, David Thompson-drum.

Parisienne" Sets Gay Mood for Prom

As they first entered the softly lit, exotically decorated park through the Arc de Carousel and saw the magnificent fountain, all who attended the 1962 Junior-Senior Prom knew that they would always remember the "Soiree Parisienne" of May 18, 1962.

The fountain, glittering with a rainbow of colors, the old-fashioned bandbox, with a canopy and white picket fence, and the sidewalk cafe -- all helped to complete the picturesque setting of Paris.

While the Debonaires played such numbers as "I Love Paris" and "April in Paris", an array of elegant formals swished through the park.

When the clock tolled eleven, Sandy McCormick ascended the red-carpeted steps to be crowned the 1962 Prom Queen by Lucky Deck, Junior Class President.

Lovely Jeanne Korteweg, our foreign exchange student from the Netherlands, was chosen 1961 Homecoming Queen.

With the coming of fall, came the excitement of the annual Homecoming festivities. After weeks of preparation, hopes for the parade were almost dashed when it rained all day on Friday, but at the last moment the rain stopped and the floats came out from under their tarps. The biting wind caused a few mishaps, but the thirty-two entries made the best parade in the history of Madison Heights.

In the bitter cold at the halftime of the mud-plagued football game, Joe Wheat, co-captain of the team crowned Jeanne Korteweg as the 1961 Homecoming Queen.

At the end of the tie game--Howe 6--MHHS 6--Madison students and alumni celebrated on this exciting and unusual night with a Homecoming soc-hop.

First Yearbook Queen Chosen

This year the 1962 Treasure Chest staff initiated a new tradition at Madison Heights by sponsoring their yearbook-queen contest. The 1962 Yearbook Queen reigned over the soc-hop following the Warren Central football game. Each candidate wore a corsage of white carnations, and the queen received a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The fourteen homerooms with the highest percentages of annual sales nominated the candidates, and the twelve hundred students who bought annuals voted for the queen.

The annual sales, the yearbook-queen contest, and the soc-hop were all a great success; and the Annual Staff hopes to continue this new tradition in future years.

Girls Effect a Switch for Coed Week

Sponsored by the Student Council, Coed Week was the week of the "big switch." The girls invited their chosen boys, chauffeured them, paid their expenses, and even made corsages for them. The Week's festivities were topped with a soc hop and the crowning of King Coed, who had been elected by the girls.

Builds Excitement for Sectional

One of the Home room walking floats with which the students supported the team before the sectional.

The week before the sectional, which is the climax of the basketball season, is known as Red and Black Week. All loyal fans wear red and black and support the team by participating in early morning pep sessions. On Monday morning the Pirate mascot crowned Anita Miller and Eric Krall as Miss Scarlet and Mr. Black. Our school spirit was exemplified in the many original displays that various organizations put up in the lobbies. With a pirate clock the Senior Class won first place in the display contest. The motor-propelled pirate ducked in and out of the clock, and the hands pointed to victory and the Pirates.

Wednesday afternoon the student body assembled in the gym for the sectional pep session. About twelve home rooms entered walking floats. Home room 89 entered one of the most original floats. Wearing paper mache head and appropriate costumes, the students dressed up as the opposing teams. Just as they entered the gym, the pirate shot a gun and the heads fell off. Then the clean-up crew came along with huge brooms and pushed the heads off the floor.

The student body backed the team 100 per cent and was disappointed when they lost the first game to St. Mary's by a score of 42-41.

Seniors Present "Mr. Roberts," Enjoy

MISTER ROBERTS is a story of the Navy. The main purpose of it centers on the extra-curricular activities of a dozen men immersed in discontent and boredom; therefore, by hating and making war on the only tangible object creating this frustration--the captain--they relieve their discontent. Since they cannot directly and personally attack this enemy of theirs, they assault the scrawny palm tree which he potted and placed outside his door, watering it each day as if he were performing a religious rite. The men have as much joy and release in destroying the palm tree as they would normally get from torpedoeing a Japanese destroyer.

Interests to the World Outside

The new Delco Remy office building.

1961-1962 was a school year that saw many momentous events. The communists threw up a wall in Berlin, cutting off the East Germans' last avenue of escape to the West. President Kennedy made a speech announcing an arms build-up that helped trigger a rash of fall-out shelter building. In February classes were interrupted while the whole nation watched John Glenn become America's first man in orbit. Students interested in world affairs attended the Model United Nations at Anderson College. There, they discussed the U. N.'s role in helping the many new, underdeveloped countries.

Anderson was the setting of our high school lives, and we watched it grow. The Methodist Church, yet to be rebuilt, a new Delco Remy office building, and some downtown face-lifting--these were signs of the times.

THE DIMENSION is organizations.

Whether in flying snow or blazing sun, some organization is sure to be busy working. Loyal membership in a school organization has always meant a great deal to students. They meet new people and learn to work with them. They develop their talents and explore new interests. They serve the school or win recognition for themselves. And maybe more important, they have fun. Participation in school organizations has broadened the dimensions of their lives and given their educations greater value.

Organizations

Student Council Leadership

The Student Council is the backbone of the student body. Through Madison Height's system of representative democracy in the Student Council, each student has the chance to make suggestions for the betterment of the school. He may make a suggestion to his home room representative, place a suggestion in the suggestion box in the book store, or present his idea at a Council meeting.

The Student Council exists for the sole purpose of serving the students and the school. It has been given a great deal of power by the administration and can be a very effective organ of student government if the students support it.

A. F. S., Homecoming Are

This year the Student Council has been very active. In the fall it put on the open house, giving the parents a chance to meet the teachers. The Council planned the Homecoming festivities and supervised the float contest. Several of the Student Council members attended the S. C. convention to discuss school problems and get new ideas.

During the winter the Council was responsible for the Christmas decorations and the competition between home rooms for the best decorated door. Mr. Hunt's door "Santa's Workshop" was the winner. S.C. sponsored Coed Week--when the girl must pay--and planned the Red and Black Week celebrations. It also helped in the organizing of the American Field Service Student Committee and the raising of AFS funds.

Throughout the year Student Council was in charge of leading the Pledge of Allegiance, running all student elections, revising its own Constitution, organizing the college bulletins in the counselling office, and initiating many programs to help students.

Student Council topped off the year with a successful and beautifully decorated spring dance.

Band director Mr. Barker poses with eleven of the trophies the Band has won in the last five years.

The students of Madison Heights are very proud of their band, and rightly so. This year through a brilliant performance the band won third place at the State Fair, and also presented five half-time shows for football games and participated in six parades. The band held a place of honor at Ball State Band competition because it won first place the previous year.

While most of the student body is home on summer vacation, the loyal band members are out marching in the hot sun. Their perfection of formation comes from constant practice. Not only in the summer but all through the school year, the band practices to give us peppier pep sessions and great half-time shows.

The leadership of Mr. Barker and the work and talent of the band come to a great climax at the annual Music Festival.

THESPIANS

If you will, recall the Christmas convo. Remember Santa, his elves, Grudge, Frank, Brownie, Sergeant Wednesday, and Miss Merry Christmas----they were all members of the hard working Thespians Club.

In addition to the Christmas convo and the annual Footlight Fantasy, the members built a float for homecoming and gave a play for the Orphan's Home.

This club's 104 members advance and encourage the dramatic arts here at M.H. H.S.

Character, Leadership, Scholarship,

Pres. Bill Steimer, V. P. Ed Reynolds, Sec. Afton Rice, Treas. Judy Robinson.

The Honor Society of Madison Heights strives to create enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate the desire to render service, to encourage worthy leadership, and to promote development of character in its students.

In past years Honor Society has purchased the sign for the lawn of the school, has purchased books on Communism for the school library, and has helped with the foreign exchange program.

This year they worked on getting railroad signals for the tracks near the intersection of Raible Avenue and 38th Street.

This is the dangerous intersection for which Honor Society hopes to get signals.

Honor Society initiates 24.

Service Is Honor Society Goal.

Ideas, Hopes For Best Book Ever.

The yearbook is a story of the events and people who shaped Madison Heights history in 1961-62. To make this story most effective, the annual staff strives for complete picture coverage of activities and organizations in school, informative write-ups and picture captions, interesting lay-outs, and eye-catching headlines. The staff does much research to produce a better annual. This is the first year that a Madison Height's editor has attended the Indiana University High School Journalism Institute for yearbooks.

To obtain a bigger and better TREASURE CHEST of features, staff members spent long hours of hard work on the preparation of the book. They often left lunches untouched, gave up noon get-togethers, and sometimes avoided Friday and Saturday night dates, especially at "deadline time."

It is the staff's hope that in presenting "Dimensions in Learning," it has achieved a better and more informative record of the events of the past year. Certainly they have learned a great deal in the "dimension" of working with people.

Julie Turnquist, top, and Jan Jones show that an annual editor's work is never done.

The JOLLY ROGER enjoyed its most successful year in 1961-62. An enthusiastic subscription drive, sparked by a Big Boy contest, more than doubled the number of this year's subscribers over last year's. More news, pictures, and features swelled the traditional four or six page paper to several eight or even ten-page issues.

Our school paper increased tremendously in student popularity this year, a fact confirmed by the huge sales volume among non-subscribers, both in senior high and junior high.

Many new ideas, already in formulation, promise to make the fourth year of the JOLLY ROGER another great one.

This year the Madison Heights Chess Club, whose activities are enjoyed by a group of enthusiastic chess players, spent one evening a week at the home of Mr. Carl Foley, the club sponsor.

Here the beginning members were instructed in the rules and principal moves of the game, and the more experienced members broadened their knowledge by putting into practice what they had already learned.

A tournament was held among the members to determine who was "the best." A Madison Heights Chess Team which competed against other schools was formed. All the members will probably agree that Anderson's challenge proved to be the most exciting.

Caduceus Opens Doors For Scientific Minds

Caduceus Medical Association is a group of students vitally interested in medicine and related fields. The goals of Caduceus are to promote a better understanding of, and a deeper reverence for, medicine. Taking a field trip to the I.U. Med. Center and attending programs presented by physicians, veterinarians, psyciatrists, and nurses enable members to see the wide scope of the medical field. The knowledge gained through Caduceus may inspire some members to enter the field of medicine.

If you heard the French National Anthem being sung sometime this year after school, you probably weren't hearing a French station on the radio. It was the opening of a French Club Meeting. These meetings included many and various activities. There were songs, skits, and stories in French. Several parties were also held, during which the club played French Bingo and other such games.

Movies about Paris helped to develop a better understanding of France and of its people; and understanding of another nation leads toward a more peaceable relationship with that nation.

This year during the last part of November and all of December each future teacher was given the opportunity to teach classes in the high school and junior high. Teaching and observing at Roosevelt School also proved to be an interesting and sometimes amusing experience.

To supplement their classroom teaching, the future teachers enjoyed four films and a speaker; some of the students attended the IFTA-SEA Convention at Ball State in the spring.

A group of girls that worked in the school office in 1956 felt there was a need for an organization in the business department. The Secretaries Club was formed the following year. Membership is by invitation only, and prospective members must be business majors and have a C average or better in all business subjects and English. This organization promotes an interest in an understanding of the business world by entertaining various business leaders at the club meetings. In order to encourage each member to attain a higher level of personality and service, several social activities were planned--a Christmas party for the club, obtaining food and Christmas toys for a needy family, and a tour through the business department at Ball State College.

Madison Heights Lettermen's Club is formed by the boys who earn a major letter in any of the seven sports open for competitive participation. The two major aims of the Lettermen's Club are to promote fellowship of members and to build school spirit.

The Club members can be seen at basketball games forming an entrance way for the team and backing the cheerleaders and Pep Club. To increase interest in all sports, M-Club members wear their athletic sweaters on the days of any athletic events.

Time out finds the Pep Club relaxing before the excitement begins again.

The MHHS Pep Club consists of sixty active girls who promote school spirit, sportsmanship, and team backing. Members of the Pep Club spend much of their time improving their skill in lettering, establishing new yells, and perfecting new motions for old yells.

The Pep Club is the leader at basketball games and at pep sessions. Every morning during Red and Black Week the club members radiate school spirit as their yells ring out through the halls.

Their most extensive project this year has been selling Pirate badges with pictures of the basketball team on them. Their most challenging purpose is getting more student backing at all games and pep sessions.

The middle of August marks the beginning of sports activities for the cheerleaders. First they practice "in that hot sun" to loosen up muscles stiff from summer relaxation and inactivity. Then comes the decision of what to wear--slacks for football and a variety of outfits for basketball.

The yell leaders, along with their advisor Mrs. Grantham, have perfected many new yells. The cheer block and the cheerleaders have used these yells to promote the school spirit and to let the other teams know Madison Heights is fighting for victory.

As members of the pep sessions committee, the cheerleaders helped present many pep sessions, put up posters, and worked on other activities to promote the games.

The next time you attend a soc hop, a music program, or a basketball or football game, take time to notice the guys in the red shirts passing out programs. They are our ushers.

Ushers have been performing their valuable service since the school opened, but Mr. Foley finally took the initiative to form the organization. Any boy may become an usher if he has passing grades and a good character.

THE DIMENSION is athletics.

The high school athletic program benefits the members of the teams, the entire student body, and the community which supports them. The long hours of practice and the tension of the game can give an athlete determination, self-confidence, a cooperative attitude toward teammates, and a sense of good sportsmanship. The coach encourages his team to win, but--, more important--he strives to mold them into a coordinated unit. A student body which supports its teams whole-heartedly knows the excitement of sharing the team's effort and feeling of accomplishment. A community and school which back their teams, win or lose, have found the secret of good school spirit--a spirit which will carry over into other school activities.

The football campaign for the '61 season showed signs of a great, up and coming team. In only his second year at the helm, Mr. Baker, head coach, showed he is building a good, though young, ball club.

The opening losses, to Anderson, 52-0, and to Newcastle, 25-12, were at the hands of two of the state's best teams. The Bucs bounced back with a resounding 25-12 win over cross-town rival Highland. In the Elwood encounter the Bucs staged a great fourth quarter rally, only to fall short 25-21. The Alexandria Tigers proved they could do no wrong as they rolled up a 14-0 first quarter lead. The Pirates then put on a tremendous defensive effort, and the final score read 21-0. The undefeated Tigers from Hagerstown provides quite a thriller for the annual Dad's Day game. With only seconds remaining the Tigers pushed across a touchdown for a 21-14 victory. When the Bucs tied into the Howe Hornets from Indianapolis, they exhibited to all Homecoming fans a very exciting and bruising game, which ended in a 6-6 deadlock. In the Warren Central contest a Central touchdown, in the last few seconds, gave the Warriors a 14-12 win.

In the final game at Arlington in Indianapolis, the Pirates exploded into an impressive 39-0 victory. This last game victory promises a really good season next fall.

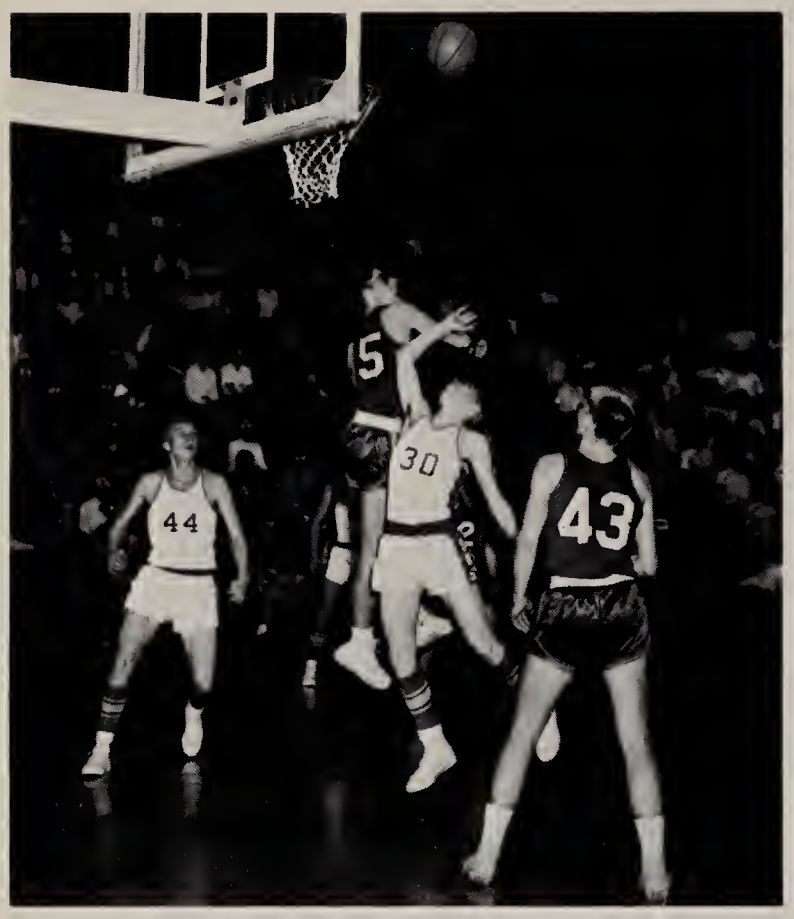
Bucs Nearly Upset Anderson



Garner maneuvers for rebound.

In building for the immediate future, coach Paul Bradford put an emphasis on youth. The inexperience of the team along with the toughest basketball schedule in school history, did not produce a winning record during the 1961-62 cage season. The record doesn't indicate the valuable experience picked up by the team. They won three of their last five ball games and lost many last quarter decisions during the year. A few of the losses were at the hands of sectional winning teams such as: Muncie Central, Anderson, and Noblesville; also during sectional play the Bucs dropped a one-point contest to Madison County Champions, St. Marys. Two of our wins were over cross-town rival Highland and sectional winner, Shelbyville, both games going into overtime.

The many close decisions lost through inexperience will begin to pay off in the coming season. With the size and scoring potential vested in the underclassmen, fans can look forward to good records from the MH cage squads in coming years.

Bucs Sprint Through Winning Season.

The 1961 edition of the Madison Heights Cross Country team paced by team captain, Steve Rybolt, ran up an impressive record of seven wins and two losses. The fleet footed Bucs also placed third at the Southport Invitational, third in the Sectional, fourth at the Shortridge Invitational, and ended the season on a high note by placing eleventh in the state meet.

Highlights of the season included the sound defeat of last year's fourth place finisher, Pendleton. The fine team effort made for a victory over our archrival, Anderson. Finally, Freshman Don Weathers placed 23rd in the state meet. With a fine crop of returning lettermen, Coach Jones can look for another winning season.

Led by heavyweight Tom Sanford, who had a season record of ten wins and two losses, the bucs tallied an impressive win over Muncie Central and reversed an early season loss by downing the Marion Giants. With a fine reserve team, and several returning varsity lettermen, the wrestling squad can look forward to an improved season next year.

Season with 11-4 Record

In coach Marvin Gordon's last year at the helm of the Buc golf squad, he showed the consistent power of so many of his golf teams. In Gordon's five years as coach, the Pirate linksmen have never once failed to qualify for the state meet and have always finished in the top ten. In 1958 the Pirates "brought home the bacon" with a state championship, the first and only one in school history. Also in coach Gordon's five year term, the Buc reserve team was beaten only once. That defeat came last year by a single point.

This year's team, coached by Mr. Horevay, shows promise of another successful year. Although two regulars were lost through graduation, lettermen Dick Mills, Jack Baker, and Lucky Deck are returning to lead the way. They will be backed up by the consistently winning reserve team, which last year was probably the best in the state. When the state tourney rolls around, the Bucs will be out to regain the state championship title which has eluded them the past three years.

Cindermen Boast

The Madison Heights track and field squad, coached by Jim Jones, again enjoyed a successful season. The Pirate cindermen downed five regular season opponents while losing to only two. The Jones boys also placed second in the New Castle Invitational, third in the Noblesville Relays, and third in the Sectional. Outstanding performances were turned in by hurdler Mike Doyle and middle distance man Tim Porter, both of whom qualified for the regional meet. With a large nucleus of returning lettermen and standouts from a fine reserve team, the Pirates can look forward to another successful season.

Impressive Record

The Pirates 1960-61 baseball team coached by Paul Bradford established a fine record of eight wins and three losses. During the season, the Pirates posted wins over such highly rated teams as Anderson, Noblesville, and New Castle. Led by the fireball pitching of Gene Hubble who pitched two no-hit, no-run games in a row and the excellent team batting the Pirates ran up high scores of 12-1, 12-4, and 17-0. Although many letterman were lost by graduation, the avid interest displayed by the boys in the baseball program should make for another winning season.

THE DIMENSION is people.

The kaleidescope of our high school days is filled with the faces of the many personalities we have known. More than any other dimension of our education--more than the books, the classes, or the activities--the people have determined the scope and value of our learning experience, and it is they we will remember. Dedicated teachers have inspired us to probe new interests and to exercise fully our highest capabilities. Good friends have shown us the meaning of true friendship. All our acquaintances have in some way added to our understanding of people.

People

Formations

The administration of our high school is of prime importance in developing and maintaining the educational policies of the Anderson Township Schools.

The County Superintendent, is the highest authority on all county school administration. The Trustee and Advisory Board select a principal to serve as the head of the school who, in turn, assists in the selection of the Vice-Principal, Dean of Boys, Dean of Girls, Department Heads, and Staff.

The Principal, with the aid of his assistants, makes the school program, builds individual schedules, advises and assigns the teachers, and represents the school with its patrons and the community.

Many people are associated with the running and upkeep of a school. What would we do without our nurse, secretaries, cooks, and custodians?

Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Upshaw, and Mrs. Herron are always busy whether it is a regular or spur of the moment job. Their knowledge of the procedure of Madison Heights makes them indispensable.

A cut finger, a cold, and the occasional need of an aspirin are only a few of the reasons students visit Mrs. Lightfoot.

The mad dash from fourth period class, the line down the hall, and the crowded cafeteria exemplify the importance of the cooks.

The custodians also perform a valuable service in being responsible for the cleaning and maintenance of the building. A big thanks goes to these people for their part in the smooth operation of Madison Heights.

Custodians are responsible for the school maintenance.

Cooks prepare for dinner for 2300.

Our teachers' success is not measured in a percentage of A's and B's or the number of people who pass their tests, but rather what the student retained that benefits him in the future.

A good teacher instills the patriotism, courtesy, determination, and logic with which the student forms his opinions and begins to mold his own individuality.

Even with a teacher's responsibilities, they still find time to listen to our problems.

Finish School, Face the Future

In the midst of a world in upheaval, the class of '62 has experienced the personal uncertainties of their senior year. During the Berlin crisis, nuclear testing, and the emergence of new nations, they have applied to colleges and for jobs, taken scholarship tests, and searched for self-understanding. In the time out from the normal round of classes, government tests, and "retribution", they have entered enthusiastically into those activities which are distinctively a part of their senior year. They have worn their senior cords, sold concessions at the football games, slaved on floats and displays, presented the Senior Class play, and enjoyed their special moments of fun--the Senior Christmas Dance and Senior Week activities. As graduation nears, the class of '62 can say with pride that theirs is one of the best classes in Madison Heights history.

Seniors fed the hungry spectators on freezing football nights.

Marilyn Filbrandt helped swell the class treasury by selling nearly 500 MHHS license plates.

A backward look at the Prom decorations help the seniors remember "Sayonara".

Class colors: Navy Blue and White
Graduation date: May 23, 1962

The last chords of "Pomp and Circumstance" fade into the background, and we stand on the threshold of the future. Looking back on our high school days, we remember excitement and fun and confusion and the pangs of growing up. High school has held many things for us: our classes throughout the four years--struggles with English comp., dangling modifiers, and parallel constructions, the efforts to remember the facts and their importance, from the Pyramid of Khufu to the framing of the Constitution and the Second World War, πr^2 and why corresponding parts of congruent polygons are equal, the valences of $-C10_3$ and Newton's laws of motion, the mysteries of shorthand and how to make your fingers go those sixty words a minute . . . those special teachers . . . all our school activities, those we've led and those in which we've participated . . . the everyday life of school--eating in the cafeteria or the bleachers, roaming the halls during homeroom, studying in the library, being with friends . . . those special times--the restless holiday atmosphere before Christmas, the football and basketball games, the sochops, the Prom, Homecoming, Sectional time, spring, the day the annuals came out, and the last day of school, . . . being seniors at last . . .

All this is behind us now. Left with the old worn-out textbooks is childhood and gained is a certain measure of maturity. We have chosen our colleges, our vocational schools, or our careers. We are stepping out into the world with high hopes and the determination to succeed. The dimensions of our lives have broadened in the last four years and we are ready to accept our new responsibilities, opportunities, and challenges.

Juniors Experience An Exciting Year

Junior Executive Council attend business session.

Junior Class Officers, President-Lucky Deck, Secretary-Bonnie Coyner, Vice-President-Mandy Welborn, Treasurer-Margaret Bales.

The juniors participated in a variety of activities as they prepared themselves for their final high school year. From that breath-taking moment when they launched their homecoming rocket to win second prize until they crowned the queen at the Junior-Senior Prom, the juniors never had a dull moment.

Many hard-working students turned out to sell concessions, to work on the Red and Black Week display, to help with the annual Junior Class Play, and to plan the Prom. The Juniors are also proud that from their class came the first students from Madison Heights to apply to go overseas as exchange students.

With the junior year past and new poise and confidence gained, they eagerly anticipate their golden senior year.

The officers of the Sophomore Class led their class through an important year--one of enjoyment and many decisions.

When the display of class rings arrived, a throng of "utterly swooning" sophomores gathered around the showcase. What seemed like an eternity of waiting followed the final choice of a ring, but at last in the spring, the Class of '64 could display their treasured rings--the marks of upperclassmen.

The choice of class colors also produced much indecision as the sophomores tried to visualize the many color combinations on class sweaters and jackets, senior day attire, and caps and gowns.

Freshmen Initiate Their First Year

Pat Kelly and Sue Swan, Freshmen representatives at large

The freshmen started their first year with mixed emotions. They met new friends and used their new-found talent in music, athletics, social activities, and classwork. After the first hectic weeks they became oriented to MHHS life. They found that they enjoyed the high school world of unceasing activity.

They will always remember the events of the past year because these events marked the beginning of another phase of their lives. Through their relationships with high school teachers and upperclassmen they began to develop knowledge and experience.

With great expectations they are looking forward to the unlimited possibilities which loom before them as they continue their high school years.

Acknowledgements

The Annual Staff would like to express its appreciation to everyone who has contributed to the publishing of the 1962 TREASURE CHEST. Without their help we would never have been able to finish the job.

For pictures, thanks goes to Russell Forkner, Doyle Fox, Anderson Newspapers, the JOLLY ROGER staff, and Mark Moore; for correcting write-ups to Mrs. Simmons; and for advice on good yearbook practices to Richard Briar and Doyle Fox.
